AWARDED GOLD MEDAL IN THE BERLINER WEIN TROPHY 2014

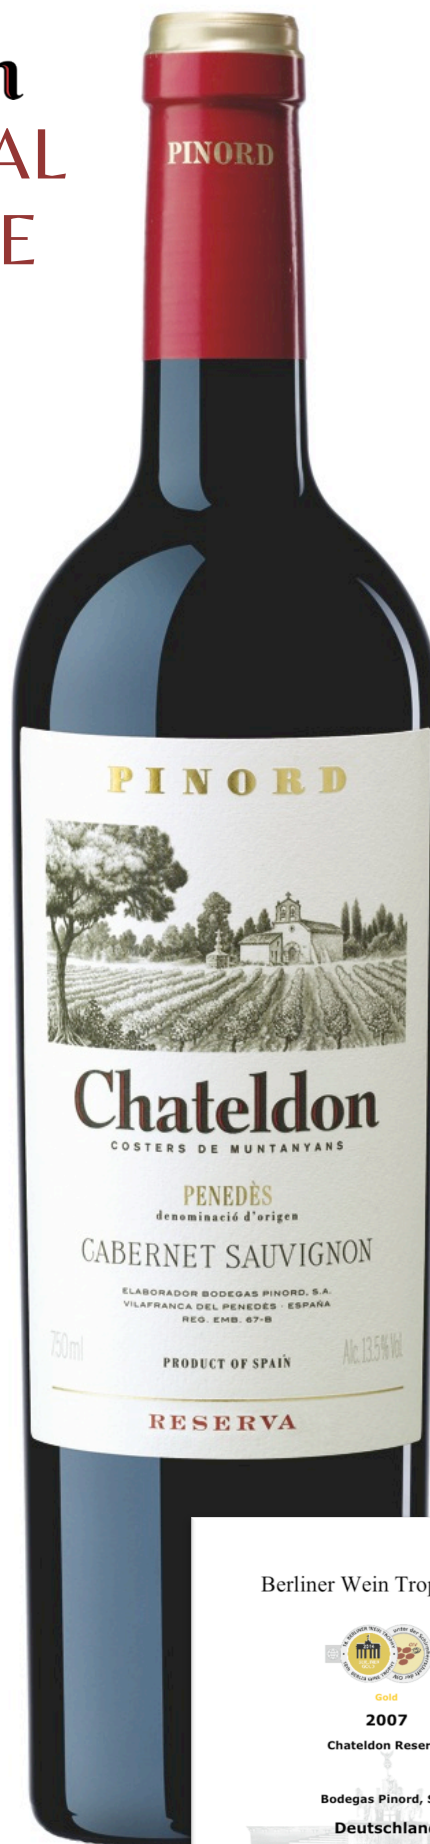

From 1994 Germany's capital, Berlin has been holding the Berliner Wein Trophy, a contest, which has become one of the most prestigious international accolades in the world of wine.

This contest, which is sponsored by the OIV (International Organization of Vine and Wine), has become the compulsory meeting point for producers, experts, critics and wine enthusiasts from all over the world. It is also one of the reference points in international wine competitions, which is clearly seen by the more than 3,800 wines competing in the 2013 event.

In 2014, competing wines were limited to 3,500 in total and wines had to have won an award in one of the important competitions of the international wine scene previous to the event.

The judges of the contest, made up of a panel of 150 members have awarded a GOLD MEDAL to CHATELDON RESERVA 2007 from Bodegas PINORD.

Other wines from the winery have also received awards in past editions of the contest. In this year's contest, CHATELDON, PINORD's flagship wine has been chosen, adding to the wine's list of over two hundred awards gained over the last 15 years in international competitions.
